Greenfield -- The Greene County Economic Development Committee held its first meeting, Thursday, November 17, at the Rockbridge Township Building in Greenfield. Those present represented a diversified group from concerned citizens to business to local and county government. Three subcommittees were formed to 1. Create a business survey 2. Study value added agriculture and 3. Investigate specialty business. We also discussed project financing, web pages, and structure of our group and recruitment of new members.

Our next meeting is January 17, 2006, 7:00 pm at the Rockbridge Township Building in Greenfield and we would like to invite all those interested in making Greene County a better place to live, work and play to attend. We need your suggestions. We plan to have with us that night representatives from state government to offer encouragement and resources.

This is your opportunity to be proactive in the growth and development of your county.
